ImmediatelyHow to self assess:

Consider these, and other important factors:

- Personnel - Do you have the required number of persons and time available to dedicate to the project?
- Systems - Are changes necessary: is additional hardware, software required.

Examples:

- The agency planned for the project during their budget cycle and allotted both program and technical staff to the project in their work plan - this would rank 5
- Access to program staff is abundant and the project is a high priority for them, however, access to technical staff is very limited - this would rank 3
- Program staff is not available and staff augmentation with contractors is necessary to complete the project – this would rank 1

Please note:

Colorado.gov will attempt to work within your time frame, but due to the nature of the project development queue, desired timelines can not be guaranteed. Please note any concerns you may have about outlying resource availability.
